CHAMPAGNE

CHAMPAGNE POL ROGER

All the know-how of our firm is revealed in its ability to reproduce each year a blend which is consistent in style and in quality. Elegant and refined, the cuvée Brut Réserve is the champagne of all occasions. The Brut Réserve is a blend in equal parts of the three champenois grape varieties: pinot noir, pinot meunier and chardonnay from 30 different crus.

CHAMPAGNE BOLLINGER

In 1911, Georges Bollinger's British agent gave him the idea for the name Special Cuvée - "special" written the English way, without an accent. He thought the French expression "Brut sans année" was no match for such a subtle champagne...

More than a hundred years later, the name of Bollinger's key figure champagne still symbolizes both its expertise and its history.

Ballan-Larquette is excellent basic red Bordeaux from an estate owned by Régis Chaigne. His estate is run with a level of commitment that is sadly lacking in too many French vineyards, and this skilled "propriétaire récoltant" is proud to tell you so. This site is representative of the life of our family winery located in the Entre-deux-Mers. Régis Chaigne from the village of St Laurent du Bois. His goal is "to bring you pleasure, reflect the richness of our land into your glass".

Wines that are on offer here are the result of work by a small team motivated and competent, anchored in the beautiful Bordeaux terroir.

The Collet family has, since 1792 and from generation to generation, devoted themselves to their vines and vineyard. Jean Collet, son of the Chablis winemaker Marius, created the Domaine Jean Collet in 1952, at which date he owned 61 acres of vines. The winery and the cellar are located in the heart of the village of Chablis, where tradition and modernism live together. The 37 hectares of the vineyards of Domaine Collet are located on the best slopes of the right and left banks of the river Serein. This gives the wines their generosity and charm.

Francois Cherrier runs this thriving small estate making really top quality wines. Muscadet is a very unique style of wine and a tremendous choice for those people looking for originality and for anyone looking to steer clear of standards and stereotypes.

The Château du Cléray is situated on a siliceous-clay soil that is crossed by a schist vein which will give minerality and salinity of our wines. The clay is the backbone of our wines. The silica will give the tenderness, the aromas and the delicacy to our wines. The specificities of the subsoils of Château du Cléray give the wines their unique personality.

A.O.C. HAUT POITOU

Think Sancerre but without the price tag! Well ok, the area of Haut Poitou is actually outside the Loire Valley proper, lying just north of Poitiers. The wines from Haut Poitou are very similar to easy-drinking Sancerre or the classic wines of Touraine, but due to the lack of Loire address are much cheaper. Whilst this is more of a classic French Sauvignon than an intense New World style, that doesn't mean it isn't bursting with freshness. Incredibly expressive gooseberry flavours roll around the glass and palate and a great zingy finish means the tastebuds are definitely left wanting more! Great with seafood of almost any description but superb with fresh prawn. To emphasise the classic seafood match this was the house wine at Rick Stein's Seafood Restaurant. Simplest described as a VERY easy drinking wine, perhaps too easy!

PANNON A.O.P.

In the wine world, there is something of a cult-like obsession with Riesling. And don't get me wrong Riesling is an amazing wine. It has a huge range of styles, it's great all on its own, and it is an excellent match with food. I will never not sing the praises of Riesling. But sometimes I think it gets all the attention and equally wonderful, interesting wines like Gruner Veltliner get overlooked.

Gruner Veltliner is an Austrian varietal that produces wines of elegance and balance. These wines can range in style from lean and crisp to full and rich and some of the best examples are combinations of both.

But what's really important is how a wine pairs with food. As it continues to gain popularity in the new world you should notice Gruner Veltliner popping up on more restaurant wines lists. And that is because there are very few foods that Gruner Veltliner doesn't pair well with. Much like Riesling, Gruner is excellent with Asian foods. Its tart acidity can handle the richness and the spices in most Asian cuisine.

Having passion for the land is not enough. It takes study, courage, and a pinch of daring to obtain perfection in the bottle. With meticulous historical research and the love we have always felt for the Roero and its wines, we discovered the plots that best express character, uniqueness, and inimitability in the wines. We did not allow ourselves to settle.

With the passing of time and the strong success of our company, we have bought the best land in the Roero, and we studied which varieties in which contexts would best express the land's terroir.

Amodo was recently created for Italian restaurants that wanted to find the most affordable wine, which still stood up to a large palette of different dishes and which tasted much more expensive than it was. The assignment went to the innovators at Enolitalia, they found the perfect wine in Northern Italy, where they managed to produce a tasty, elegant and incredibly affordable Pinot Noir. We can only lift our hats and be glad we are their exclusive importer in Ireland!

VALPOLICELLA, VENETO

ITALY'S WINERY OF THE YEAR 2016, 2017 & 2019

Wine Enthusiast calls Amarone “one of the 15 icons in Italian wine”. They are certainly some of the most prized reds from Italy, made by the ancient tradition of sun drying grapes before fermentation. This gives them an amazing richness, a glorious combination of power and complexity that cellars well, too. No wonder they are prized the world over. This 2016 from the renowned Cantina Negrar is named after the 18th century poet Bartolomeo Lorenzi, whose epic poem celebrating rural life made Valpolicella wines famous. The grapes are from the ancient dry stone terraces of the cool Marano Valley, where they ripen slowly. They are then air dried for 120 days to intensify flavours. A superb bottle to enjoy now with hearty dishes or to cellar.

Domini Veneti Lugana DOC takes its name from its production area, Lugana, which is located in the foothills 50 metres above sea level, on light clayey-limestone soils of morainic origin in the best areas of Veneto on the southern shore of Lake

Garda, divided between the provinces of Brescia and Verona.

The wines obtained are very elegant and highly drinkable thanks to an important acid content and an aromatic framework that expresses great freshness.

The Montepulciano wine harvest takes place between late September and early October. The carefully-selected grapes are then destemmed, crushed and subjected to alcoholic maceration for a period of 10-12 days, during which alcoholic fermentation takes place at a temperature no higher than 26°C. Once fermentation is complete, the wine is separated from the skins and conserved in steel containers, where malolactic fermentation occurs. Prior to bottling, the Montepulciano is clarified and filtered, before being aged first in the steel containers and then in the bottle.

2019 is considered a very good vintage: the summer was warm and dry, with only two episodes of rain (one in July and one in August).

September temperatures remained within the average for the time of year. In October rainfall was low, but it rained frequently.

CASA FONDATA NEL 1934

Chianti Trambusti Ltd was founded in 1934 by Orlando Trambusti, an expert wine lover who decided to parlay his natural avocation into work. His first activity was running a small storehouse in the municipality of Greve in Chianti. In 1956 the company moved to Via Pistoiese, where it remains today. Orlando Trambusti, founder of the company and fomenter of its steady growth, died in 1982. From that moment his son Giovanni took the reins of Chianti Trambusti. Giovanni continued following the guidelines set down by his enterprising father - selecting with care and skill the best wines in Tuscany, to be bottled and delivered to loyal consumers in Italy and abroad. Thanks also to their great contribution to the company, today Chianti Trambusti is a great wine-making estate with modern and functional equipment to produce and bottle wines of impeccable qualifications and value.

SARDINIA & SICILY

SARDINIA

Sardinia's wines have little in common with those produced in the rest of Italy. The Island's remote Mediterranean location, as well as the historic influence from other cultures, gives the wines a unique character that might be considered to have more in common with Spanish than Italian wines. Historically, whites were produced in high volume with relatively high alcohol, although more recently Sardinia's producers have been reducing yields in order to focus on quality rather than quantity. This shift was a more recent phenomenon in Sardinia than in other parts of Italy, with many winemakers reluctant to change their methods in order to seek out commercial success. Quality has prevailed, and now there are 19 DOC appellations.

SICILY

In the last 20 years Sicilian wines have improved in quality, and together with Apulia, Sicily is now the largest producer of Italian wine in Italy. Many grapes are made into raisins, and Sicilian grapes also play a large role in creating dessert wines, which require a higher concentration of grapes and are consumed in smaller quantities.

The high-altitude of some Sicilian vineyards creates climatic conditions similar to northern regions, with the advantage of much more sunlight. Overall however, the predominant climate is hot and dry which results in characteristically robust and powerful wines.

GALICIA, RIAS BAIXAS

Adegas Gran Vinum

OUR WINERY

Winemaking has been part of the Piñeiro Cores family for many generations. The family first undertook a dramatic reorganization of their vineyards in their grandparents' generation, who united fragmented small plots of land. This enabled them to reduce costs by uprooting many hybrid vines and replacing them with the Albariño variety.

The vineyards are situated in two main areas, on hillsides overlooking the river Umia and the Ría de Arousa. They are cultivated in the same way as they have been for generations, fertilized with clam and cockle shells. Later, they are pruned and cared for on a regular basis. The conduction system of the vineyard follows the Galician tradition of using long stones, raised like goal posts to elevate the vine off the ground and counter the extremes of high rainfall.

WINE REVIEW ONLINE, JULY 2021. 92 POINTS

"This is better than most Albariño producers' flagship bottling. It shows lovely aromas recalling white blossoms that aren't too perfumed, followed by juicy, utterly delicious flavours recalling white peaches and melons, with a squeeze of lemon to lend focus and edge. The flavours are underlain by light touch of saline minerality, which rides through the persistent, proportional finish."
